FINDING YOUR STRENGTH :

Practical Strategies & Inspiration for Raising a Child with Disability

MS JACQUELYN ANG has more than 20 years of experience working with autism organizations and advocating for the needs of autistic persons. As a parent of an adult autistic son with high support needs, she brings with her valuable insights through her lived-in experience in addition to her Masters in Autism Studies from the University of Kent, United Kingdom.

She was the founding member of parents' support groups, namely Parent Resource for Autism (Pr4a) in Malaysia, and SHOULDERS-sg in Singapore. In 2012, Jacquelyn received the "Inspirational Caregiver Award" from the Singapore Association of Occupational Therapists. Currently living in Malaysia, she supports various special needs communities with a special interest in youth programs and providing outreach support to families with adults on the autism spectrum.
